NO MORE DELAY IN PAYMENT

Amount Appropriated to be Paid Panama Government-Bailey Makes Spirited Speech.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15.-After day devoted to routine proceedings, the Senate was treated to a spirited speech Senale was treated to a spirited speech by Mr. Bailey just before adjournment on the question of civil service.

The Panama Canal bill occupied the major portion of the day, and was passed without revision.

When the last section of the bill, that previding for a government depository in the canal zone, was reached, Mr. Aldrich moved that it be stricken out, saying that the Committee on Finance was of the opinion that it should not be retained, notwithstanding the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Morgan congratulated Mr. Aldrich upon the motion, at the same time ex-tressing his surprise. "I am astonished at the senator's hold-

"I am astonished at the sonators hold-noss in venturing upon a course not en-dorsed by an executive department," ho said, "but I hall it as an indication of the return to the virility manifested by the Senate in its earlier days," (Laughwas suggested that the McComas

It was suggested that the McComas amendment, extending the coastwise laws to the business with Panuma be withdrawn, and Mr Morgan made this suggestion the basis of a speech, in which he said that unless the United States should take complete possession of the canal zone, it could not adequately regulate such matters as the admission of supplies or men to be used on the

Mr. Spooner took issue with this view, contending that the United States would have as much right to regulate these natters as if the canal were entirely within the limits of this country. Mr. Spooner also made reply to Mr. Morgan's contention that unnecessary delay was being exercised in the payment of the $10,000,000 to the sovernment of Panama for the canal concession, saying in effect, that it was the intention that the was being exercised in the payment of the 316,090,000 to the government of Panama for the canal concession, saying in effect, that it was the intention that the concession should be paid for when the canal property was acquired. Mr. Spooner spoke in favor of an amendment proposed by Mr. Morgan that the pardouing power rest in the Governor instead of in the commission. He moved also that a new section to added, providing that all saluties or other compensation fixed by the commission shall be subject to the approval of the President.

The amendment was adopted, as well as a number of others requiring more rigid accounting to the President by members of the commission.

MONEY APPROPRIATED.

Mr. Bacon offered an amendment at the end of the first section of the bill providing that "the payment of $10,90,000 to Panama, provided for in article 14 of the treaty, shall be made in lieu of the indefinite appropriation made in the third section of the act June 28, 1992, and is hereby appropriated."

The amendment was adopted after an explanation that this would clear away all doubt as to the authority to make the taxment.

The amendment was adopted after an explanation that this would clear away all doubt as to the authority to make the payment.

Mr. Morgan made a final speech against the bill. In less than a minute after he censed speaking, the bill was passed without division.

MR. BAILEY SPEAKS.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was taken up. One of the amendments relating to appointments of timber agents aroused Mr. Balley, who spoke of the civil service requirement as a "dream, an irdecent dream," and added the conviction that "the present President has surended the civil service hay in order to make polifical" appointments more times than all of his prederessors. He then amounced himself a spoisman, and said that he "delighted in it."

"I believe." he said faitly, "that to the victor the spoils belong, and if I had my way under a Republican administration, I wouldn't allow a Democratic endorsement to be filed; or would I, as a largerent permit the filling of Renustion, I wouldn't allow a Democratic en-dorsement to be filed; or would I, as a Lemccrat, permit the filing of Repub-lican endorsement under a Democratic admiristration."

He added that he would ask no favor of political enemies and said if such fa-vors were granted he would not think much of those who granted them, as he much of those who granted them, as he would know that they would expect fawould know that they work in return.

Mr. Hale said he fully agreed with much that Mr. Bailey said, yet it was impossible to get a change because of the unwillingness of Congress to put it-the unwiningness of congress to particular self on record.

The Senate adjourned until to-morrow, with the sundrey civil bills pending.

OF HUMAN INTEREST; STORIES OF TO-DAY

A Literary Disappointment.

There is a moral, says an exchange, in this account of a worshipping admirer's visit to his favorite author, and that moral is—"If you are fond of herowors, ip, never make a pligrimage to see the hero."

"His presence was a shock to me. He did not have long hair, the was not tall and lean. He did not look hungry, or lonesome. His eyes did not have a "taraway look in them. Instead of dining on incease, he ale beef, and companied on incense, he are beef, and companed that it was 'tough on him;' and, to cap the climax, while reaching for a book in the library, he stepped on the cat's and kicked the feline through a gass window. Then he ordered whiskey straight, and told the man to charge it!"

Juvenile Strategy.

"What have you got in that package?" taid the attendant at the great public museum.
"Bananas," answered the boy, "Dozen of 'em. Want one?"
"No, and you can't bring them in

"No, and wu can't bring them in mere."
"Why not?"
"It's against the rules. But you can thetek the package at that window, and get it when you come out."
"Cost anything to check it?"
"Five cents.
The boy said he wouldn't pay it, and went away.
Ten minutes later he reappeared, without the package.
"I guess I can go in now, all right," he said.
"Hold on. Have you got those banas concealed about you?"

"Benas concealed about you?"

Accordingly, the unwilling seafarer went to his steamer and his staturoun, loaded with drowsiness superinduced by a prior course of training, and before the lines of the ship were cast off he was sound asleep. When he waked he was unable to tell how long he had siept, but he felt that it had been an extended performance, and that he was incapable of any more. He also felt entirely well and without a suspicion of his usual selft, ness. Much elated, he left his stateroom to go on deck, and in the cabin met the purser, to whom he told of his new-found culturely with great, satisfaction.

"Why," said the purser, "It may be all right, but you've hardly given it a fair test. We found some of the machinery broken yesterday morning and we haven't turned a serew nor moved a fathom's langth sinca you went to bed. We'll be sailing this afternoon."

The MAN ABOUT

Not His Game.

Dr. J. M. Da Costa, the noted Philadelphia physician, was, even in his college days, a hard worker and a serious minded youth.

While he was reading medicine at the Jefferson College, young Da Costa, upon one occasion attended a ball. He did not enjoy this ball very much. He would rather have been at home at work. He wandered here and there among the gay crowd, looking lonely and bored.

Perceiving his plight, his hostess took him in hand. She complimented him on his success as a student, but she arged him at the same time to mingle now and then in the gayetles that are natural to youth.

Thus, pointing to the sats that were TOWN (BY HARRY TUCKER.) We always were unlucky from the day we came to age;
"Things come to him who waiteth." said
the wise man and the sage.
But the man who takes his chances and waits for things to come will soon be sly of credit, be completely
on the bun;
Be a. friendlers, homeless creature, with patches in his pants;
What he needs to do is hustle, grab the most convenient chance.
The man who thinks his friends will help
when he is in a mess,
Would better wake up from this nap and take another guess. We always were unlucky from the day

Now if Mayor Taylor and Captain Mo-Carthy will only redire from the race, we will go in, so that the stability of re-publican institutions may be maintained and the sovere-gnty of Democracy up-held.

Or words Or words to that effect.

During all this turmoil we fail to hear any member of Council withdrawing, and it makes us feel proud to know that there is a bunch of staunch and tried citizens, full of patriotism and other things, willing to stand up and hurl the slogan of defiance at the traducers of citizenship as it goes through life quietly and orderly on a street car or in a cab. Or words to that effect, also,

Who is to feed the squirrels in the Capitol Square for the next four years? is the mooted question.

Will it be he or him or the other fellow? Strong combinations are gottling together, and the cross-roads politicians and ward heelers are unitying the dogs of war.

We will take this opportunity of saying right now that we do not care for the office.

We are not fond of banquets and hate after-dimer speaking. Not that we cannot speak as well as any one else, after the champagns has gone Around.

But we like to get up feeling all right the next morning.

The Willing Workers, however, are in the field.

We love those fellows.

They are so loose and careless with their spare change, and we like to filt around with them, like the butterfly, from place to place, culling sweets.

The Willing Worker comes out from his hole as regularly as the ground hose, but he is not half as distasteful a creature.
